HARD TO PROTECT THE FOOLISH

MITIZENS of Hancock County who have money to invest should take cognizance of the warning issued by Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the newly established Securities and Exchange Commission.

Rules and regulations, aided by publicity, cannot furnish absolute protection to investors, he said, and no guarantee that stocks are "good buys." Fluctuations in the stock market are expected from other causes, even if manipulative practices are eliminated.

In other words, as the chariman himself says "there is still a premium on brains and analying conditions."

INDEPENDENT RETAILERS STRONGER

THAT independent retailers have weathered the depression and are in a "stronger position to compete with large organizations than in many years" is the interesting conclusion of Dr. P. H. Nystrom professor of marketing, Columbia University.

He has just conducted a survey of retail distribution and finds, to his surprise, that in many states there are more retailers than in 1929 and that this is just the opposite from what happened during the depressions of 1907 and 1921, when large numbers of independent retailers fell by the wayside.

TWO KINDS OF PROFIT

TTERY few people who think want to destroy "profit" motive. Almost everybody agrees that extraordinary ability or industry is entitled to extra reward.

Profit may be the reward for a man's investment of time, effort, and foresight—which is THERE is much loose sentiment and idle chat- of a brain trust of the time. Its result of no labor, but taking advantage of another's weakness, ignorance, or necessitywhich is bad, and should be eliminated.

The funny thing about the whole business is that those who defend unfair profits enlist under their banner very often those who in their minds are only thinking about fair profits. No man, or group of men, should be allowed to profit at the expense of somebody else's misery and misfortune—unfair profits should go.

FAITH, PLUS IGNORANCE, DANGEROUS

WHEN a holiness preacher in North Carolina picked up a rattle snake letting the lina picked up a rattle snake, letting the snake bite him to show that God would take Manchuria, it would have spoken with authorcare of him, in order to demonstrate faith to his small mountain flock, he made the front page in newspapers all over the country.

As he later refused medical attention, al though his arm swelled and his suffering was intense and death seemed near, he showed determination and courage commendable in themhis flock, he testified again and again about his great "healer," God.

We have no idea of ridiculing the preacher. He exhibited many admirable qualities throughout his ordeal but the one quality that he placed on a pedestial higher than anything else was ignorance. Faith, plus intelligence, is the hope of the world, but faith, in ignorance, is the despair of progress. However much one may admire the faith that moves without knowledge there is a higher respect due the faith that wisdom adorns.

DO YOU KNOW ABOUT SHARKSA

THERE are people in the United States, particularly along the sea shore, who believe that sharks are predatory denizens of the deep that they will bite off an arm or a leg just for fun and that they should be left alone by those who favor longer life for themselves.

Dr. William Beebe, of bathysphere fame, who has gone under the water to a depth deeper than any other observer says otherwise and alleges that a shark will not attack a human being. Moreover, he tells a story, attested by an observer from above, who watched the performance through a water glass. It appears that Dr. Beebe, prowling on the ocean's floor, at a depth of six fathoms (landlubbers will have to figure this out for themselves) saw a five-foot shark swoop behind him. He merely prodded the shark in the ribs and the "man-eater" fled. Later he passed a baracuda again. The truth we find by examiwithout being molested.

The evidence may be complete but it is just not primarily a charter of liberty at possible that the shark had no teeth and that the baracuda's vision was impaired! Meanwhile, and authority. Its purpose was not we plan no effort whatever to cultivate the to extend liberty, but to impose refriendly side of sharks and baracudas, but will be glad to hear from any reader who continues along the line of Dr. Beebe's experiments.

THE CONSTITUTION. T7Eare hearing a great deal these ity of the restrictions imposed by some of the measures of the New Deal. The Constitution is referred to so often as a guaranty of liberty that it is worth while to study it again. The truth we find by examination is that the great document 058 of the counties classed as emeris not primarily a charter of liberty gency drought counties. that it is worth while to study it nation is that the great document is all, but essentially a charter of the strictions which had been found necessary against the abuses of liberty The Declaration of Independence is our charter of liberty.

History is said to repeat itself, a statement which is also denied. What actually happens in that certain chains of cause and effect often resemble each other so much that parallels can be drawn, if we are care ful to analyse them and to note differences, as well as resemblances.

teen states confederated into a close common interests, with a document which was more of a treaty than a ey and a very poor reputation at state governments (Massachusetts, situation has been described as "anarchy and confusion." There was good.

The purpose of the document is expressed with surpassing eloquence in the preamble: (1) to form a more perfect union, (2) establish justiice, (3) insure domestic tranquility (4) provide for the common defense, (5)

That last clause needs careful consideration, if it is not to be misunderstood. Liberty is secured, not by allowing full license to everybody, states and citizens was taken away liberty might be secured. A very modern instance may illustrate the principle. When the police of Boston went on strike some fifteen years ago restraints were removed because there was nobody to enforce into service to preserveorder and so protect the liberties of peaceful citizens against the lawless elements of the population. His action gave him a national reputation, and led to his selection as President of the United States.

Unrestained personal liberty means icense to do wrong, as well as to do because the stronger oppress the seizes power. It was the abuse of liberty that led to the drafting and the adoption of the Constitution. Professor Muzzey, who is a great and judicial departments, and by providing checks against abuses. It create a government with authority and power.

Such a government was needed in 1787 to meet the political disorders of the times. The Convention met the situation bravely and very wisely. They settled their question so well that the government which they devised is now one of the oldest, as well as one of the strongest and best loved in the world. There is a growing bleief that our present troubles are due to abuses of liberty of a different kind. The Constitution furnishes us the only authority powerful enough to restrain such abuses. It is not a shield to protect the antigeneral welfare.

Among the more pretentious pro ductions recently released are included Cecil B. DeMille's newest spectacle, "Cleopatra," a Paramount picture featuring Claduette Colbert, Warren Williams and Henry Wilcoxson, and Warner Brothers' newest musical, "Dames," with Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Zazu Pitts, Guy Kibbee and Hugh Herbert...

May Robson is at work on what producers believe will be her best vehicle since "Lady for a Day," for Columbia. The picture is "Orchids and Onions" and Miss Robson is costarred with Carole Lombard. . .

Warner studios hummed with activity with "Flirtation Walk," with Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell; "The Firebird," featuring Verree Teasdale, Ricardo Cortez, Lionel Atwil and Hal K. Dawson; "Happiness Ahead," with Dick Powell and Josephine Hutchinson; "Just 'Out of College," with Franchot Tone ,Jean tors. College Education Necessary Says Supt. Of Schools Bond

At this time final plans are being made by thousands of young men and women in reference to carrying on their education beyond high school graduation. Everything else being equal, it is said that a college graduate will have twice the chance to get on in the world as a high school graduate. Mississippi has many splendid colleges, denominational, state and private, and we are hoping that in choosing a college for this year our own institutions will receive first consideration.

The Federal government has expressed its faith in a college education in a very substantial way. There will be hundreds of young men and women who very greatly desire to go to college unable to do so at this time. In the long run they will win if they do not give up. Their chance will come some day.

Further, a great majority of rural residences are without interior plumbing. Fewer still have modern labor and time saving devices. It is said that the farm home, as compared with a good urban home, is 25 years years behind the times.

CURRENT COMMENT

The railroads do not like the retirement act and would be glad to have it validity tested in court. Under the terms of the act, common carriers and employees contribute to a fund for the support of workers when old age comes upon them. Pensioning worn-out empolyees is not new as a suggestion but that plan is nwe as a practical and operative matter. There was a time when the village blacksmith or cooper sustained by an apprentice or two, could contiune his working days well beyond the allotted three score and ten. Business was local, owned by the small-scale proprietor, and he could labor into old age if he saw fit so to do. Now it is centralized, and the old timer who wishse work must walk hat in hand from plant to plant instead of simply strolling from his house to his own shop. The grayhaired-worker has gone pretty much into the discard, but he cannot be knocked in the head. Perhaps the railroad officials and everyone else had better get down to brass tacks and decide what is to be done with
